

Seniors - Fighting Thieves Con Artists and Scams

Why this book is for you. With the advent of smartphones, tablets, internet, and social media there are far more ways for fraud against seniors; plus the long standing scam methods still in use. If you're a senior you likely didn't grow up using new technology and can sometimes struggle to use these tools in staying in touch with family and friends. Fraudsters know this and use these new avenues to cheat retirees. Make no mistake though, fraudsters still also use phone calls and door knocks to hook fraud victims. Don't look to this book as a tutorial on using technologies, but rather you will find it full of details and instructions on how to use technology while safely avoiding scams.

Plus you will see how to spot and protect against scams. If you need help using technology safely, are worried about being taken advantage of, or know a family member who is, then this book is a must for you. What's in this book? This book goes beyond the basic information you'll find in the other Seniors Fight Fraud books most of which can be found on the internet.

Here, I've taken a holistic approach to closing off avenues that can scam seniors. It's no longer just the phone to worry about, but rather now our technology can be used against us; computers, smartphones, tablets. We all need to change how we use new technology devices. Besides technology, there are in-depth discussions on the latest investment and non-investment scams, plus a Red-Flags chapter to remind everyone how easy it can be to get caught up in a fraud. As a bonus I've included 2 chapters in keeping with a couple themes in the book. First, how to protect yourself when you lose your wallet, and second how to conserve battery and keep your smartphone running longer. I have encountered many of these scams myself so I know they are alive and well. Get these important tips for free! Amazon book preview shows the first tips; please
