

How To Get Hired as a Legal Professional

Im Maureen OToole-Linckens. I have spent the better part of the last 25 years as a Personal Injury Paralegal. During that time I was the first stop in the hiring process for paralegals, legal assistants and even associate attorneys. I was the gatekeeper. I collaborated with my bosses on the attributes and qualifications of the 100s of resumes and cover letters we received. I know what attorneys are looking for and what they dont want in a new hire. When trying to get hired as a legal professional in todays economy, it is important to remember that Justice may be blind but attorneys arent. They can spot bullsh*t a mile away and they will call you on it. An attorney argues for a living, finds the weak spot in their opponent and then exploits it. A rote, boiler plate resume and a half-hearted cover letter may have cost you a whole lot of money to have prepared for you, but it wont pass the stink test when it lands on the desk of a hiring attorney. Attorneys do not want a wimpy pawn on their chessboard. The ways you were taught in classes on resume and cover letter writing and even interview questions are antiquated. They may have worked in the 80s but in todays world you need to meet the needs of the firm that ARENT specified in the job description. Sit back and take notes, folks. Let me tell you what it will take for you to get hired.
